PLAYING THE GAME

From the coasts of Sicily to deep in the heart of Nazi Germany, the Allies of the European Theater of World War II are in need of a few extraordinary, battle-tested heroes.

GAME SCREEN

To begin a new Single Player game, select SINGLE PLAYER in the Main menu. The Campaign Select screen appears. Select the campaign you wish to play (HUSKY, NEPTUNE, MARKET GARDEN, or VARSITY), then select the mission. Gameplay begins.

NOTE: When you begin, only HUSKY is available for you to choose. Complete each mission in Campaign mode to unlock the next one in sequence. Complete each campaign to unlock the next campaign in sequence.

OBJECTIVES

You cannot complete a mission until you complete the mission's primary objectives. There are several ways to complete each objective and how you go about it is up to you.

- ★ Completing objectives (both primary and secondary) and garnering a high accuracy and kill count earn you medals. For more information, see Medals on p. 7.

COMPASS

Your compass tells you where your team is located as well as the location of your primary and secondary objectives.

- ★ Green dots on the compass indicate the members of your team.
- ★ Circled stars indicate the location of your objectives.
- ★ For information on your objectives, press the START button to open the Pause menu. The Objectives screen automatically opens.

HEALTH

As you take damage a red damage indicator flashes on the screen. This lets you know that you've been hit and also informs you of the direction of your enemy. As you continue to take damage the screen blurs and you hear your breathing quicken. When the screen turns completely red, you are defeated. To replenish your health, immediately remove yourself from the line of fire and rest. If you can avoid damage, your health regenerates over time.

- ★ Winning medals such as the Silver Star and Oak Leaf increases your health capacity. For more information, see Medals on p. 7.

SPRINTING

Running into a fire fight or dashing out of the line of fire are important lessons of the battle-weary. As you sprint, your breathing informs you of when you completely exhaust yourself. If you take a break, your capacity to sprint regenerates over time.

- ★ Winning a Bronze Star increases your capacity for sprinting. For more information, see Medals on p. 7.

NOTE: When you have been shot, you are no longer able to sprint.

USING COVER TO YOUR ADVANTAGE

Every soldier knows that staying out of the line of fire is the best way to stay alive. To do this, use objects around you as cover.

- ★ To crouch behind cover, press the  button. Press the left analog stick to creep forward in a crouch.
- ★ When you are crouched behind cover, enable your scope or gun sight (hold the L1 button) and press the left analog stick  to peak above the cover.
- ★ To peak around corners, enable your scope or gun sight (hold the L1 button), then press the left analog stick / to lean left or right.

UPGRADING YOUR WEAPON

Just as soldiers used their ingenuity and whatever was at hand to modify their weapons on the battlefield, you have the opportunity to upgrade your weapon as you progress through the game. These upgrades can give you the edge you need in the heat of battle.

- ★ Weapon upgrades are available solely for the Allied SMG and rifle.
- ★ When you find an upgrade, you are prompted to add it to your weapon.

3. Select the profile you wish to use.
4. At the prompt, "Ready," press the  button again. When all players are ready, gameplay begins.

MULTIPLAYER GAME MODES

Deathmatch	Every man for himself. The player who earns the most kills—and who was killed the least—is the winner.
Capture the Flag	Infiltrate the enemy's lair, grab the flag, and bring it to your base. Be alert, though—the enemy is trying to do the same with your flag. Score the specified number of points to win.
King of the Hill	Stand near the flag to earn points while fending off attacks from others trying to stand near the flag. Score the specified number of points to win.
Scavenger Hunt	Collect the airdropped supplies and deliver them to the drop-off point. Be the first player to collect the specified number of supply drops to win.

NOTE: Any of the four multiplayer game modes can be played as a team match. To do so, select your game mode then toggle the Team feature ON or OFF.

HINTS AND TIPS

- ★ Weapon accuracy is important. Use ironsights while crouched or prone to improve your chances of hitting your target.
- ★ You can pull the pin from a grenade to start cooking it (for more information, see Command Reference on p. 3). This allows you to control when the grenade explodes.
- ★ Sprint between cover areas to avoid taking unnecessary damage. It is very hard for enemies to hit a fast-moving target.
- ★ Make sure you enter each fight with a fully loaded weapon. When not under direct fire, reload before engaging the next set of enemies.
- ★ To gain tactical advantage on enemy forces, try guiding your parachute towards landing zones marked by green smoke canisters.
- ★ For greater flexibility with your M1 Garand, press D-button ↓ to temporarily remove your sniper scope upgrade (once it is equipped). Press D-button ↑ to reattach it.
- ★ Try using short bursts on mounted machine guns to avoid overheating.
- ★ Peek while you are in ironsights by pressing the left analog stick ←/→. This can open up a clean shot while remaining in partial cover.
- ★ The battlefield is littered with fortifications and debris. Use them to your advantage by taking cover from enemy fire!

ABOUT THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR SOCIETY

In 1946, the Congressional Medal of Honor Society (CMOHS) was formed to uphold the qualities of the Medal of Honor and to provide assistance to indigent recipients. Whether they became millionaires or laborers in peacetime, the CMOHS seeks to promote a brotherhood between recipients, for there are no “winners” of the Medal of Honor and no victories on the battlefield without brothers to protect. In so protecting, a number of recipients have given the ultimate gift to their brothers and their country. In their memory and those who have subsequently passed on, the CMOHS retains the record of their valiant actions. For living recipients, the CMOHS seeks to promote full and vibrant lives in peace for these living symbols of what it means to be an American. In times of duress, Americans need to look no further than the Congressional Medal of Honor Society for the values of valor, respect and honor across the spectrum of American backgrounds—the values that make this country great.

Electronic Arts™ is privileged to participate in the Society’s continuing education and awareness efforts on behalf of the Congressional Medal of Honor and its recipients. You can learn more about the Society and the recipients at the Society website: www.cmoHS.org.
